
Leave Your Space Clean

Most sellers conform well to our basic Roadium rule: whatever you bring in and do not sell, you take out when you leave.

Don't leave it for someone else to sell.

Don't leave it at all.

The cost of both cleaning these spaces up and paying to have the trash hauled away has increased tremendously.

It is not fair to charge or punish the hundreds of sellers who leave their spaces clean each day.

So, the rule for those who rent space and assume the responsibilities that go with that space is:

The vehicle that brings in the merchandise cannot leave until the space is clean; no other person can take over loads.

Cardboard maybe left if it's broken down and neatly stacked in the center of the space.

Any violation of this rule may be serious enough to have your selling privileges at The Roadium taken away for 30 days or more. The manager on duty will decide the penalty.

No excuses. No exceptions.

And, if a seller is found moving his trash into another space at any time of the day, he will automatically lose selling privileges at The Roadium for a minimum of 30 days.

And, thank you to all the sellers who do clean their spaces and treat this area responsibly and professionally.
